BARTHOLOMEW QUILL

A CROW'S QUEST TO KNOW WHO'S WHO

by Thor Hanson; illustrated by Dana Armin

Bartholomew bowed to the puffin and found a large bird in a tree, to whom he addressed the following test: 'Could it possibly be you're like me?'

Tour the animal kingdom from a crow's point of view in this whimsical mix of science and poetry from Thor Hanson, acclaimed ornithologist and author of the award-winning adult titles Feathers and The Triumph of Seeds.

Bartholomew Quill is clever and curious, but he doesn't know quite who or what he is. He has feathers not fur, so he can't be a moose; he is black like a puffin but his beak is the wrong color. Readers join Bartholomew Quill on his journey to figure out exactly what kind of animal he is. With a clever rhyme and captivating watercolor/ink illustrations by Dana Armin, this book will teach young readers about wildlife as well as biodiversity, identifying characteristics, and the clever and lovable crow.

Thor Hanson is a conservation biologist, a Guggenheim Fellow, a sought-after public speaker, and the author of award-winning adult books including Feathers and The Triumph of Seeds. He lives with his wife and son on an island in Washington State.

Illustrator Dana Armin is a Northwest native and helps lead the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators (SCBWI) Western Washington chapter. She lives in Seattle.

ABOUT THE PUBLISHER

Sasquatch Books, together with our children's imprint, Little Bigfoot, is one of the country's leading independent presses, located in downtown Seattle, just blocks from Pike Place Market and Elliott Bay. Our mission is to seek out and work with the most gifted writers, chefs, naturalists, artists, and thought leaders in the Pacific Northwest and bring their talents to a national audience. Their passion for what they do becomes ours as we help transform their vision into beautifully crafted books that represent the adventurous spirit and DIY lifestyles of the region.
